WHEN YOU TELEPHONE

Perhaps few of us who have been bred and born in the twentieth century, and who, even though we do not possess one ourselves have at least made use from time to time of the telephone, fully realize the great blessings that this recently developed instrument affords us.

In our grandfather's young days there was no such thing as the telephone. Telegraphs there may have been, but while these handled long distance communication over a limited number of routes, they afforded little benefit to the general public in the ordinary run of daily business and living.

Today it is different. While there are yet many farms which have no telephone, this prized instrument can be seen on the walls of a great number of rural homes, and on the desk of the great majority of business firms.

However, the telephone, like Mother, is seldom given credit for all its virtues, and its endless services to its possessor. Carrying our voice at a speed which would enable it to circle the globe eight times in a second, unaffected by heat or cold, daylight or dark, good roads or bad, the telephone enables us to make quick contact with either those on the next farm or in the next block, or those many miles away. Just how many miles of travel a telephone may save any one individual cannot easily be measured; each knows best himself how the telephone serves . . . but perhaps fails to realize its advantages until for some reason service is discontinued.

Perhaps we would do well to take greater advantage of the telephone. We have heard of farmers who have driven from town to town, spending a whole day in search of a part for a broken down machine, when a few telephone calls might have saved much valuable time and costly travelling. Perhaps you yourself have overlooked the telephone to your own cost. There have been occasions when most of us have.

We in the newspaper game well realize the benefits of the telephone, but we also know the difficulties incurred in telephone conversation. The greatest drawback in the use of the telephone is the danger of error. This danger is incurred by three main factors. In telephone-conversation you cannot draw pictures or "talk with your hands" or in any other way demonstrate your meaning. You must rely solely on the use of the spoken word, be it English or Bengali. This infers that the person speaking into the telephone must be able to explain themselves in a lucid manner, use good descriptive language, and have all facts and figures accurately lined up before they attempt to put over the message.

If you need an implement part you should have both its number of description ready before you make the call, then the man at the other end can give you an intelligent reply. Your telephone cannot make corrections in your speech or your English.

The second factor hampering telephone conversation is the fact that the difficulties inherent to the use of the spoken word are increased and amplified by the phone. Poor diction on the part of the speaker can make it extremely difficult for the person receiving the message. Figures and letters are particularly hard to put over. The army was forced to desert the use of the ordinary alphabet names for the letters when they started the use of telephones. Over the phone you cannot distinguish between M and N, and B, D, C, G, P and T are in most cases completely indistinguishable. A practical solution for this difficulty is, when the letter is important, to use the form "B as in Bharat," "C as in Charlie," "D as in Don," and so forth, using your own imagination to provide suitable names. Then there are words that should not be used over the telephone at all . . . we defy anyone to be sure whether a person says "can" or "can't" over the phone . . . much better to use "can not" or "will not" or "do not" than the contractions which are popular in ordinary conversation.

The rate of speech for a telephone conversation should not be too great. Ordinary speech of many of us are prone to rattle on at an excessive rate, running our words together and tumbling the syllables on to top of the other. Not good practice at any time, it is even worse when telephoning.

Finally, the condition of the instrument and the line. Some phones are notoriously weak and some line perennially noisy. These are technical difficulties that cost money to clear up, but are well worthy of attention.

THE SAFETY "IF"

If everyone who drives a car could lay a month in bed, With broken bones and stitched up wounds and fractures of the head:

And there endure the agonies that many people do . . . They'd never need preach safety any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand beside the bed of some close friend, And hear the doctor say, "No hope," before the fatal end, And see him there unconscious, never knowing what took place:

The laws and rules of traffic I am sure we'd soon embrace.

If everyone could meet the wife and children left behind, And step into the saddened room where once all days were kind,

And look upon the vacant chair where daddy used to sit, I'm sure each reckless driver would be forced to think a bit.

If everyone would realize pedestrians on the street Have just as much the right-of-way as those upon the seat, This steady toll of human lives would drop from day to day, And we would be able to work in safe and happy way.

If everyone would check his car before he takes a trip, For tires worn, loose steering wheel and brakes that fail to grip,

And pay attention to his lights while driving roads at night, Another score for safety would be chalked up in the fight.

If everyone who drives a car would heed the danger signs Placed by the highway engineers, who also marked the lines To keep the traffic in the lane and give it proper place, The accidents we read about could not have taken place.

Lastly, if he who takes the wheel would say a prayer, And keep in mind those in the car depend on his care, And make a vow to pledge himself never to take a chance, The great Crusade for Safety would steadily advance.

The Wrong Door

"We do not deny the right of any citizen to adequate education, housing, medical care and job security. We do fear and distrust the 'Taps' whose best philosophy in which the state assumes it can spend the citizen's money more wisely than he can spend it himself." We are quoting from the words of Benjamin H. Namm, a highly successful department store operator of Brooklyn, N.Y., as they appeared in Collier's Magazine. Admitting so much, Mr. Namm further contends that "Not 10 per cent of our citizens would enter the door marked 'Socialism' if the price of admission was clearly indicated." The trend of the unwary in this direction arises from the fact that the generous promises have borne with them no suggestion that when a government gives, it also takes away.

Enterprise too has been lacking. It has been supremely unenterprising in making clear how many of the proposed advances are already half way to accomplishment as a result of expanding production and distribution in which enterprise has had a major and government a very minor part. The advances of labor, the elaboration of products that have added to the comfort and graciousness of living, and the increased earning power that has been both possible, certainly hasn't come from government. It springs from a profit incentive system and from no other source. Yet labor still believes that management is unfriendly and all but 41% of the public believes that corporations do not tell the truth about their profits. Strangely enough they are prepared to put all their fortunes in the hands of government, which, if this were true, must be a party to the deception, as the government's own tax and accounting experts have rightly supervised these figures.

It would seem that enterprise has failed to secure a friendly understanding because it has attempted to do what the late A. L. Smith shrewdly observed was impossible—to "beat something with nothing." It has let its welfare state advocates have all the cards and make all the promises. It has failed to remind the public that, over the years, enterprise has done far more for the people than government now promises to do and that no more than in the beginning, does it now own the people.

Because the impression grows that whoever opposes the welfare state is a hopeless reactionary, Mr. Namm urges that enterprise should declare itself for a welfare society, a self-reliant civilization in which the public and capital and labor and management co-operate to achieve for themselves what they mistakenly assume only governments can provide. Such co-operations over the past generations has proved able to open new frontiers and pioneer new causes and so, without any sacrifice of liberty, has assured a larger and more generous life for all.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17, 1950.
 Mr. L. D'Albertanson,
 The Editor,
 Wainwright Star-Chronicle,
 Wainwright, Alta.

Dear Mr. D'Albertanson:
 On May 28th, we wired to you seeking your co-operation in connection with the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. At that time the Red River flood was at its height and many thousands of residents of the Red River Valley area had been driven from their homes.

The flood waters have now receded and business life of the community is back to normal. As a result of the generous help given by the weekly newspapers of Canada in support of the Fund, along with the assistance given by the press and radio of Canada and some thousands of local committees which have been giving their enterprise help to the Fund, we now have received contributions of more than $650,000 in cash and goods to the value of several hundreds of thousands of dollars, which goods have been directed to the Red Cross and Salvation Army for distribution to flood victims.

The generous contributions made to the Fund will enable us to carry out our objective of fully compensating flood victims for loss of furniture, home furnishings and personal belongings destroyed or damaged by the flood waters. Approximately 1,000,000 persons have contributed to the Fund. These contributions have ranged from 5¢ cents up to $100,000 received from the Line Elevator Companies and the grain trade.

The Manitoba Flood Relief Committee has decided to bring the campaign to a close on July 15th. In ending the campaign the Committee and the flood victims whose homes will be restored by the Fund, wish to express to Wainwright Star-Chronicle deep appreciation for all that you have done in enabling the Fund to reach its objective. They also ask that through your columns they be permitted to convey

Canada, along with other peace-loving democracies, hopes fervently that the anti-Communist war in Korea won't burst into a full-blown international conflict but she doesn't intend to be caught napping if it does. Events of the last week in Ottawa pointed up the fact that the country is ready to switch to a wartime basis in a matter of days, perhaps even of hours. Plans have been laid—and were even before Korea—in both the military and industrial spheres. Since the Korea invasion, further preparedness moves have been taken in hand. The week brought disclosures that the government has prepared a secret (Continued on page seven) their heartfelt thanks to the citizens of your district who have contributed so generously and to those who have worked so diligently in local efforts on behalf of the Fund.

We feel that the contributors to the Fund will be interested in knowing that the raising of the Fund was accomplished entirely with voluntary help. As a result of all connected with the Fund having contributed their time and efforts, the cost of raising this large sum of money will be less than 4¢ of one per cent of the amount collected. We believe that this constitutes a low cost record in the raising of a large Fund.

We would appreciate it if through your columns you request that any local committees operating on behalf of the Fund forward any contributions on hand as soon as possible after the closing date of the campaign. Again thanking you for your generous help.

Sincerely yours,
 CECIL LAMONT,
 Honorary National Organizer
 Manitoba Flood Relief Fund.

Dear Mrs. Turner:
 We are in receipt of your letter of July 11th with enclosure of a Treasury Voucher in the amount of $449.45 representing the collections at Wainwright for the 1950 Cancer Campaign. Enclosed please find our official receipt No. 779 to cover same. The books and money check up perfectly.

On behalf of the Edmonton Council of the Canadian Cancer Society, I would like to thank you and all the ladies who assisted with the campaign for your very valuable assistance in our drive.

Economy On The Poultry Range

Equipment can play a vital role in reducing the cost of raising birds on the range, say officials of the Alberta Department of Agriculture's Poultry Branch. They suggest that two ways in which this may be done are by reducing labour and by reducing feed waste.

If sanitary, automatic water fountains are provided, water need only be brought to the flock once a day and if large, automatic feed hoppers are provided, growing mash need only be brought to the birds once a week. If whole oats are fed as the whole grain part of the ration they should be kept before the birds at all times. If wheat is used, it should be fed as scratch in the evening.

The mash feed hoppers, if not properly constructed, can be very wasteful. The wall should slope out from the vertical at about a thirty degree angle and should have about a two inch lip sloping in from the vertical at about a thirty degree angle. Feed should not fill the hopper to the brim. This type of side to the mash trough or some variation of it will usually keep growing mash wastage to a minimum.

Always let the growing mash hoppers go completely dry before refilling

HOUSEHOLD ITEMS FOR FLOOD VICTIMS

The Women's Volunteer Service of Great Britain has collected household items such as silverware, pottery, paintings and flower pots to supply the homes of flood and fire victims in Manitoba and Quebec. Here a Volunteer inspects an attractive cookie jar before shipment to Canada.

Otherwise, the denser constituents in the growing mash, such as salt, will settle to the bottom of the trough, and after it has collected in sufficient quantity may have a harmful effect on the growing birds.

The Iceless Refrigerator

To those of you who have no refrigerator or cool place in your kitchen this pamphlet explaining how to make and use the iceless refrigerator will be invaluable. It operates on the principle of evaporation of water.

Preserve By Freezing

The time to freeze fruits and vegetables is beginning now and there are right and wrong ways of freezing any food. If you are puzzled about which variety of fruit or vegetable to freeze for best results there is a booklet which will tell you which is best. The booklet Preserve by Freezing explains all the steps necessary to freeze foods properly. Have you tried freezing ready prepared stews, sandwiches, cakes or pies? They will be convenient for emergencies.

Both of the pamphlets mentioned above may be obtained by writing or calling in for them.

Henning By Machine

Have any of you seen the new way to put up hams on dresses, curtains and so on? While I was at the Club Leader's Course at Olds last week I saw hams sewn on a sewing machine. The hem looks like a factory made hem (be that good or bad) and is quickly and easily made with only one row of stitching around the hem. Anyone interested in learning how to save time by this method of hemming may write in for directions.

Incidentally the Club Leader's Course at Olds was a great success with plenty of work and some singing, dancing and merry-making. This course is another reason why you would enjoy being a Club Leader next year. This is the time to think about organizing a club in your district. The girl's club should have eight members between the ages of twelve and twenty-two years. Girls outside those ages may be Junior or Associate members. For full information about Club Work write to me and I will help you to get a club going in your district.

Common Diseases Of Raspberries

Diseases of garden crops seem to be more prevalent this year and inquiries are coming in from many points with respect to unthrifty growth of small fruits. P. D. McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that among raspberry ailments in this province two virus diseases that are troublesome are Mosaic and leaf curl. Unfortunately, not much is yet known about the type of organism causing these diseases and knowledge of effective control is limited. Cultural methods and spraying seem to have little effect and the only solution at present is destruction of the diseased plants.

Mosaic is the most common of the

KEEP THEM OUT

Time Out FOR Laughs

A frog was caught in a deep rut in the road. His friends rallied around him but their combined efforts couldn't get him out. One by one they left him to struggle alone. They waved their farewells. He was in despair. Next day he was seen hopping along, no longer in the rut, and chigger as you please. "Say, what are you doing here?" said a friend. "I thought you couldn't get out of that rut." "Neither I could," said the frog, "but a truck came along and I had to!"

A small boy's head bobbed up over the garden wall and a meek little voice said, "Please Mrs. Black, may I have any arrow?" "Certainly where is it?" "I think it's stuck in your cat!"

THE WORLD OF WHEAT
New Varieties Of Wheat

Three new varieties of wheat, all rust-resistant, will be found growing in places over the prairies this year. The first is REDMAN, a production of the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Breeding, Winnipeg, a cross between Regent and Canby, in some areas giving a higher yield than Thatcher.

The second is SAUNDERS, produced by the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, a cross between Thatcher and a selection named St. Saunders is an early wheat, maturing two days earlier than Thatcher and three days earlier than Red Bob. Saunders is of especial use in the foothills of Alberta, and in Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan where early fall frosts appear.

LEE is an imported American variety known in Canada as CT-109, originated at the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station. It is a hardy variety and somewhat higher yielding in Canada than any other variety. Lee matures about as early as Thatcher. Lee will be found growing in "Crop Testing Plan" demonstration plots in southern Saskatchewan and in the whole of Manitoba for which areas it is considered to be especially suitable.

All farmers, it is suggested, should watch these three varieties, for one of them may be more suitable or individual farmers than the varieties they are now growing. All these are approved for high milling and baking qualities.

No Substitute For Work

By Lewis Milligan

This is the age of synthetics. We have synthetic rubber and a host of other manufactured materials which are more or less claimed to be as good if not better than the real thing. As I do not own a car, I cannot pronounce upon the merits of the rubber substitute, but from my acquaintance with motorists I believe they would prefer the product of the rubber plantations. Most substitutes are developed because of a shortage or the high cost of the thing. The two great wars were chiefly responsible for the development of many new synthetic materials.

The creation of these synthetics is a striking example of the resource and ingenuity of the human mind. It is the product of the compelling power of necessity, the mother of invention and enterprise. As the population of the world grows, the necessity for substitute raw materials and even food will be more and more imperative. The marvelous achievements of modern science are not miracles performed by the rubbing of an Aladdin's lamp; they have been the gradual development of individual initiative and skill, prompted by personal ambition to excel and produce something the world needed for its advancement. All progress has been the result of personal initiative which eventually developed into corporate enterprise.

Corporate enterprise, however, cannot take the place of or dispense with individual initiative and ambition, whether it be to invent a new gadget or process, or whether it be to operate one and do a job to the best of one's ability. Everybody cannot be an inventor, but everybody can and should obey the Scriptural injunction: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." If that were followed there would be no labor disputes, no shortages, no economic problems—domestic or national—and our social and moral problems would be reduced to the minimum. "For Satan findeth mischief still for idle hands to do."

Science has invented many mechanical devices and chemical processes that have lightened and speeded up all forms of manual and clerical work, but no one has yet invented a substitute for work. Nobody can be said that, while work has been lightened, it has been intensified. With all his inventions, modern man has not found relief from the necessity of working for a living. I remarked once that fact in the course of conversation with a small group of friends, and one lady, the garden of Eden is still in force. All last year's final estimate of 164 million pounds and one hundred and forty-one percent more than the pre-war average of 73 million pounds.

Mettie's wheat harvest this year is expected to be a record crop. The expected out-turn of 193 million bushels is twelve percent larger than the 1949 crop and third larger than the average production during the years 1935-38.

There is no escape from work. For the vast majority of the people in this world the edict issued at the exit from our scientific labor-saving devices whose husband has a steady job at a moderately good salary, said the only hope of relief from having to work for a living was to get a "break" by winning in a sweepstake. Judging by the wide sale of sweepstake tickets, there are millions of people living in the same hope. But it is a vain hope, except for minute number of "lucky" ticket holders. And that is fortunate for the world in general, for if it were possible for everybody to win a fortune in sweepstakes the entire machinery of modern life would come to a full stop.

There is no escape from work. For the vast majority of the people in this world the edict issued at the exit from our scientific labor-saving devices have only increased the necessity for work in the greater variety of occupations, and the tendency is for man to become a slave to the machines he has created. An American scientist recently suggested the possibility of developing a race of synthetic man, half ape, to relieve civilized man of the heavier and mechanical forms of labor that he pointed out that it was the necessity of work that led to the development of the human brain and man as we know him. If civilized man ceased to work for a living he would deteriorate mentally, morally and physically and the half-man would develop and supersede him. "Blessed is he who has found his work; let him ask no other blessings," wrote Carlyle, and he was a hard worker.

Valencia Oranges Regain Old Size; California Happy

LOS ANGELES—California's Valencia oranges, which shrank to almost golf ball size over a five-year period, are back to their normal baseball dimensions again.

This cheering news comes from L. H. Wooten, general sales manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, the marketing co-operative which sells 75 per cent of the California-Arizona citrus harvest.

This year Valencia, the familiar juke orange of the breakfast table, are the biggest they've been since 1945. It was in that year that the mysterious shrinkage, which has perplexed the best citrus minds, was first noticed.

It took an average of 248 Valentines to fill a shipping box in 1945. Last year the average was 215 per box. The 1950 crop is expected to average 276.

Larger, juicier

The fruit is not only larger, but is juicier and has a higher sugar content than normal this season. This makes the growers happy. But citrus experts aren't clapping their hands—yet.

They want to see if the shrinkage trend has truly been stopped, or if this is just one of those extra-good crops that come along every few years.

There is evidence to support the latter theory. Naval oranges, which ripen earlier than Valentines, were bigger and better this year than they have been in many seasons. Rainfall in the state, which had abnormally light precipitation for six or seven years, this year was almost back to normal.

One thing is certain—the harvest will be larger this season than last, probably by two and a half million boxes. This is because frost damage was less severe this year. The exchange predicts 17,000,000 boxes will be shipped this summer.

But while the growers smile, scientists at the University of California's citrus experiment station still conor the shrinkage mystery their number one problem.

Kitchen ... Kinks Salad Days Are Here

Salads have grown in importance. The salad used to be served occasionally and as an extra garnish. Today they are an every-day "must" and often the main part of the meal.

Salads vary from the small crisp bit of green that is an accompaniment to the heavy meal to the substantial whole meal on one plate that may include even the dessert. The supper salad usually provides the complete first course on one plate but has a satisfying dessert to follow.

The right kind of salad for supper will satisfy both the men and growing boys of the family. Salads also satisfy the cook on hot summer days for she is able to keep the kitchen cool and have supper ready in less time than it takes to boil the water for the tea.

Cold meat plates with plenty of crisp greens and some other vegetables give the impression of cool freshness but are completely satisfying to the heartiest appetite. Just as beans, eggs, cheese and fish are alternates to meat.

In hot meals, now they may be used in cold salad meals.

These tested recipes come from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture.

1. Salad

- 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon gelatine
- 1 cup cold water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 6 tablespoons catsup
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish (optional)
- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 1 cup shredded cabbage
- 1/2 cup diced celery

Soak gelatine in cold water. Add salt and sugar and boiling water and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add catsup, vinegar and horseradish (if used). Cool until mixture begins to set. Add carrots, cabbage and celery. Pour into 6 individual moulds which have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until set.

Tomato Pineapple Mold

- 1 tablespoon gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 10-ounce can tomato soup
- 1 cup sliced cooked cheese
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- 1/2 cup sliced, blanched almonds
- 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat soup and add the soaked gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Chill. Combine the cheese, mayonnaise, celery, onion, almonds and sweet pickles. Add to the gelatine mixture, blending well. Pour into one large mould or individual moulds which have been lightly oiled or flaxed with cold water. Chill until set. Unmould on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise. Yield: ten or twelve servings. If desired, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper and 1/2 cup diced cucumber may be used in place of the almonds and pickles.

Potato Tongue Salad

- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/2 cup cooked salad dressing
- 4 cups sliced, cooked potatoes
- 1 cup diced, cooked tongue
- 3 green onions, chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 hard-cooked eggs

Letting

Add curry powder to salad dressing. Mix potatoes, tongue and green onions with dressing, season with salt, and pepper and let stand one hour to blend flavour. Cut eggs in quarters. Serve salad on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with hard-cooked eggs. Yield: six servings, (5 cups salad).

Take The Camera

The most unfortunate people you meet on a holiday jaunt are those who admire some particularly beautiful scene and say to themselves:

"If only we'd remembered to bring our camera!"

Probably most of us have been in that plight at one time or another. The family camera has been left behind in the rush of packing for a once-in-a-lifetime trip. And all through the trip, the scenery has fairly begged to be put in film, the cloud masses and sunsets have been heart-breakingly photogenic, and incidents for perfect candid shots have presented themselves at every turn.

This year, if we're wise, we'll put right at the top of the list of vacation plans: "Take a camera."

For vacation snapshots take on special charm and appeal, regardless of the type of camera used. Just as holiday time usually is the high point of a year, the photographic record of its activities stands out in a season's picture-taking activities.

As the years roll by, the pictorial history of a family's holiday fun becomes more and more valuable. Flipping the pages of an album will stir memories of the first season you rented the cottage, the summer the dog fought a porcupine, the year you bought the boat, the windstorm that toppled so many trees, the boys' first canoe trip, and so on.

Many of these occasions come only once. Almost before you realize it, they are gone—unless you have a camera handy.

Never in any other recent year have dealers stocked such an array of cameras of every type and price. Both black and white and color film are plentiful and there are books galore on picture-making.

Maybe some of the snags will come out under-exposed or overdone. The

Sports Camera

Canadian football must be coming of age when a United States pro outfit starts accusing the Dominion of raiding its players.

That's the conclusion you jump at after hearing the wails from Coach Paul Cleveland way. There, Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns lost no time registering a hearty holler last week when he learned that Ottawa Rough Riders had signed two of his prize prospects from Villanova College.

The way Brown told it, the two—Jackie John Bandusky and back Tom Clavin—had "signed contracts and accepted bonuses" from the National League Browns. Then, to his surprise, the news arrived from Ottawa that the pair had decided during a visit to the Capital to throw in their lot with the Big Four League Rough Riders.

The Cleveland coach phoned President Eddie Emerson of the Riders. He phoned the players in question and he phoned President Bob Moran of Toronto Argonauts, the latter club presumably to find out what other Big Four teams had when somebody steals their players (they usually try to swipe a couple back).

Brown's first call to Emerson couldn't have been too profitable. He followed it up by one to Moran in which the affable accountant of the Argos got the distinct impression that Cleveland had declared war on Canada.

The dashed Moran came off the phone with this communique from Cleveland: "We'll move into your country and offer tremendous salaries to your best players and take them away from you."

Pleaded ignorance

Brown apparently did better on his next try with Emerson. He told interviewers in Cleveland that the Ottawa president "indicated they didn't know the kids had signed with us," adding: "It is my hope and belief they will make the boys fill their legal contracts."

Whether the Riders do or not, the whole incident is the kick-off for what should be an interesting football season. With the training grid at hand, the plucky pounders will be getting down to opening action in another six weeks.

The calibre of play should be at its best. The Canadian Rugby Union has sanctioned the use of seven United States imports for each team, two more than last season. All eight teams in the two big leagues—the Western Canada circuit and the Big Four—have been lining up the best players that money could buy.

Old one may be blurry because someone moved or the camera fluffed. Perhaps you'll swing the lens too far towards the sun as the shutter clicks and the picture will come out light-struck. But the good shots should capture the fun of your 1950 holiday in a form that will rekindle your memories in the days ahead.

can import (as witness the Colebrook incident).

"Calgary Stampede, seeking to regain the Grey Cup that they lost to Montreal Alouettes last fall, pulled the biggest deal among Canadian talent when they stole homeboy Royal Copeland from Toronto. The Argos, with nearly 30,000 seats to fill in their unaltered Varsity Stadium, didn't even pretend that the loss didn't hurt, but went ahead rebuilding.

Other clubs have been busy. Hamilton signed Carl Voyles, coach of the pro Brooklyn Dodgers, to mastermind its new unannounced team. Edmonton announced that their playing roster will include Greater Winnipeg Willie Watson, erstwhile champion of the world and various other places. Yes, it should be an interesting season.

The Week at Ottawa

blueprints under which industry could be geared quickly for war. It brought out also the fact Canada has a defence plan which could be put into effect "rapidly" to deal with any sudden attack on her cities.

Most of the disclosures in the military sphere came at a press conference given by the nation's chief defence planner, Defence Minister Claxton, just before he left for Newfoundland on a combined inspection tour and holiday. It was he who spoke of the military defence plan against sudden attack but he did not elaborate.

No Peacetime Conscription

The Minister, however, did bring out these points:

1. Peacetime conscription forms no

180,000-HORSE-POWER DES JOACHIMS PLANT IN OPERATION

Holding back a 57-mile lake, the mighty 1,400-foot dam at Des Joachims, near Ottawa, has started to function to unleash 480,000 hydro-electric horse-power for Southern Ontario. The dam, built in three years at a cost of over $75,000,000, was officially opened by Hydro Commission Chairman, Saunders with representatives from other provinces attending the ceremony. Completion of the project promises an end to power black-outs of the past few years.

part of government policy—"We're against it."

2. Anti-aircraft defences in the vital St. Lawrence area will be strengthened. It was learned that wartime 2.7-inch ack-ack weapons are being sent there.

3. Canadian reserve army units other than those at the front will get more equipment soon. "Under a program arrived at independently of Korea."

4. The first steps will be taken shortly to train a nucleus of civil defence experts. This training will be carried out at certain armed forces schools and will include a secret course in the handling of atomic and other forms of attack. This nucleus of men will be valuable later in building up civil defence units in the municipalities.

Mr. Claxton gave his conference the very day Canada's three Pacific-based destroyers—Albatross, Sioux and Cayuga—sailed for Hawaii, where they were expected to arrive July 12. They will go on to action in Korean waters if the United Nations wants them there and present prospects are that they will be wanted.

The Minister said there was no intention at present to send more naval units to the Pacific but it could be done without recalling parliament. However, if Canada decided to consider further aid to South Korea involving the R.C.A.F. or army units, a special session of parliament would have to be convened. This was in line with the promises Prime Minister St. Laurent gave the Commons just before parliament prorogued June 30.

Mr. Claxton said it was unrealistic to anticipate a gas attack on this country. Canada had "plenty of gas masks, but I don't think a gas attack will ever come." As for an early-warning radar network, he said one was being set up at strategic points.

Industrial Mobilization

The government blueprint for gearing industry to war was disclosed by an unnamed government official. He said it called for dispersal of industry with some of it going underground to be safe from atomic attack. However, he did not believe these particular proposals would be financially possible for some years.

But if war broke out there would be a return of a munitions department to mobilize industry as in 1939-1945. There would be a return of price and other controls in a form to suit present day conditions and food rationing probably would be clamped on again.

Stockpiling of strategic materials already is going on under the plan, which was drafted almost immediately after the end of the Second World War and has since been checked and amended from time to time.

Meanwhile, official Ottawa observers say the weather experts in Korean developments. There is little optimism here than the anti-Communist battle in the far Pacific will come to a swift end or even that it's certain to remain an isolated incident.

Prime Minister Menzies of Australia where peacetime conscription already has been invoked, will come to Ottawa after visits to London and Washington. His visit is seen as setting the stage for revival of discussions on a Pacific defence pact, something Australia has been pressing for.

The last word of Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson on the matter simply was that so long as nations like Britain and the United States considered a Pacific pact premature, there was not much point in pressing for one. Korea may change all that.

No Coast Guard
On the domestic front there were indications that the government has finally decided against creation of a national coast guard service. It was learned that instead a unified rescue service for distressed ships will be created under the guiding hand of the R.C.A.F.

The plan calls for the use of all vessels in several government departments and agencies which will be put under the single command of the air force for search and rescue purposes. Up to now these vessels have operated independently in rescue work with no unified direction of their efforts.

The R.C.A.F. was chosen as the controlling agency because of its big network of communications, enabling it to keep in touch with ships at sea. Under the plan, federal ships on both coasts will keep communication centres posted on their positions at all times. When a distress signal comes in, the R.C.A.F. will direct the nearest ships to the scene.

A big R.C.A.F. Canoe flying boat based northwest from Ottawa last week on a scientific mission. Aboard were a skilled crew of seven and two scientists bound on the fourth annual aerial expedition to the north magnetic pole.

The scientists, Ralph D. Hutchison and Kenneth Whitman of Toronto, will resume studies of the vagaries of the constantly shifting magnetic pole which is moving at a rate of about 10 miles a year in a north-northwestly direction. Its movement is important to navigation because of its effect on

KING LOBSTER TO RULE N.B.

—Central Press Canadian
Kings of three days will be the lobsters of Shediac, New Brunswick, where a festival is being held July 4 to 6. In honor of their majesties, the R.C.A.F. will put on a display of jet aircraft, the R.C.N. will stage diving operations, and thousands of Canadian and U.S. visitors will pay homage. The lobster, however, may take an enthusiastic view of the pageantry, since the place of honor, reserved for them, will be on platters at dinner tables.

"Obsolete" Clothes Merchants' Bugbear

NEW YORK—Look out, lady. There are a lot of people aiming to make you unhappy.

They think you are too well satisfied with the clothes you have. (Tell that to your husband when he tries to convince you that old things you wore a' last season is still perfectly good.)

Them would-be "merchants of unhappiness" are none too happy themselves about the way women's wear has the accuracy of compasses.

The Canoe will stodge around the north for about six weeks, dropping down on uncharted lakes, to make observations and then hopping off again to northern settlements to refuel.

been clinging to store racks instead of moving into your clothes closets. One of them has come right out and said the cure for that is to make you unhappy.

"It is our job to make women unhappy with what they have in the way of apparel," B. Earl Puckett, chairman of Allied Stores Corp., told the New York Fashion Group.

The clothing industry, has fallen down on that job, he added—creators of women's styles by not getting some kind of new look every year, retailers by relaxing selling efforts, store salespeople by being too independent. He urged all groups to do their best to make women feel their present clothes are obsolete.

"We must not only replace what is worn out, we must replace what is obsolete; we must accelerate obsolescence."

Individual Hands

It is individual hands like these which have built this nation. Working in a system of Free Enterprise they have guided Canada to the high standard of living our citizens enjoy today.

With faith in the future men and women work more eagerly. They know their individual initiative and enterprise will produce its worthwhile reward. The thousands of well established farms throughout Alberta justify this faith. They also justify the system of Free Enterprise which makes them possible. These farms today belong to free men and women. But they will remain so only as long as men and women treasure the right to dream, to hope and to plan; and only as long as you and your neighbors value the privilege that enables your individual enterprise to make your dreams, hopes and plans come true.

Calgary Power Ltd., with its many shareholders, has pioneered with you in building Alberta. Sharing your faith in Alberta's future, Calgary Power plans and builds for the years ahead.

Brown-Keeping Nuptials

At Grande Prairie

Friday, June 30th

Christ Church, Grande Prairie was the setting for a very pretty wedding on Friday, June 30th at 2 p.m. when Marion Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Keeping of Denmitt, Alta. was united in marriage to James Allan Brown of Paradise Valley, Alta.

The Reverend Canon Standish performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of white sheer. Her chapel veil fell softly from a matching comb trimmed with red roses, her only ornament was a set of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by the bridesmaid, Mrs. F. Turner as matron of honor, who chose a blue embroidered nylon dress with head-dress of blue marquisette she carried a sheaf of carnations.

Mr. Fred Keeping was best man and Mr. Frank Turner the usher.

Mrs. Dale of Grande Prairie was the organist accompanied by Miss Day on the violin. During the signing of the register Miss Day played "I Love You Truly."

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Turner. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Keeping chose a black figured jersey with matching hat and corsage of roses. Mrs. Brown mother of the groom chose a flowered mauve jersey, with a corsage of roses.

Rev. Canon Standish proposed the toast, to which the groom suitably responded.

The happy couple left by car for Sturgeon and Slave Lake returning by Edmonton.

For travelling the bride chose a navy suit with grey accessories. The young couple will reside on their farm at Paradise Valley.

On Sunday afternoon the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood to "show" the newly wed and to extend a welcome to the bride. Mrs. Brown before her marriage was Miss Marian Keeping of Grande Prairie. Mrs. H. E. Swayne in a very gracious manner expressed the good wishes of those present and extended a welcome to the bride on behalf of the community. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brown expressed their appreciation for the welcome extended to them. The many gifts were enclosed in a huge wedding

As a rule the night shift at a police station is a dull grid for both the cop and the reporter on the beat. But one evening as I was playing pinball with the desk sergeant a little before midnight, a girl came in. She was a mighty pretty girl of about 18.

"Something the matter, miss?" asked the sergeant.

"Well, a boy tried to get fresh when we were parked in the hills. I've just walked back."

"That kind of a guy, huh?" the policeman growled. "You give me his name, miss, and we'll—"

"Oh, I don't want to prefer charges against him," said the girl. "I just want you to give him these keys. He will come in to ask about them. You see," she added, with a grin, "he's walking, too!"

"Ruth, a Symbol of Family Loyalty."

Memory Selection: "Ruth said, Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee; for whither thou goes, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."—Ruth 1:16.

Professor James Strahan said of the book of Ruth,—"It is like a pastoral symphony after a storm of martial music. Even the Bible scarcely contains a sweeter tale of love." It is the position of the little book between Judges and I Samuel with their accounts of the struggles of the tribes of Israel for their existence that emphasizes its peaceful character. In the Hebrew Bible it is found near the end. The truth it contains is one of the highest reached by Old Testament writers.

The little genealogy at the end is a key to the writer's object in writing the book. There we read that this Moabite girl was King David's great-grandmother. David, Israel's national hero, had a strain of Moabite blood in his veins. Now place this book after the Bible and particularly when Ezra and Nehemiah, in their efforts to keep the blood of Israel pure, were rejecting Jews to put away wives whom they had taken from the people of the land and their children with them, and we see that there was another party in Ourselves with very different views. Here was a daughter of Moab whose virtue shines with as bright a light as any of the daughters of Judah.

And God gave her a place of high honor in the history of His elect nation. Are we not often ashamed for our history when we meet people of blood and faith different from our own whose character is as strong and beautiful as any produced among us? Yet this is an every-day experience in our land.

Our first impression of Ruth is gained from her declaration of loyalty in chapter 1:16. Imagine the scene! Here are three bereaved women trying to face the future. Misfortune never comes singly, and one blow after another had killed the men of the family. Naomi, bereaved of husband and sons, longs for the home of her childhood and plans to return.

There was no place in the society of her time for young unmarried women. Their only safety lay in having husbands and homes of their own. So she advised her daughters-in-law to go back to their own people, and to them with prayer for their future. One of them went; Ruth refused to go. She had entered the family by the sacred door of marriage and felt that death could not break that bond. Besides, there was something in Naomi's character and faith that satisfied her heart.

So she affirmed her decision in words that are among the finest in the language of men—"Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God; where thou diest, I will die and there will I be buried: the Lord do so to me, and more also, if I ought not to death part thee and me."

There is nothing more beautiful in the world's literature.

Loyalty is the cornerstone of human relationships. In the family the fidelity of husband and wife to each other and to their children, in the nation loyalty to the flag and all that the flag stands for, in business life faithfulness to one's obligations and diligence in doing his part are the foundations of success, peace and goodwill. These virtues Ruth possessed in full measure and they placed her among the first of the women of the race.

Did you ever meet a woman who was keen on tracing relationships? The pedigree of her family she could trace back for generations and the history of each branch of the family she knew.

by heart. Naomi was one of that sort, and when she heard Ruth's story of her experiences gleaming in the harvest field of Boaz a new idea struck her. Boaz belonged to her husband's family. The Hebrews gave high responsibility to the next-of-kin. If a man died, his family heritage, his next-of-kin had the right and responsibility of buying it back; if a man were slain, the next of kin was the avenger of blood. It occurred to Naomi that Boaz might be her son's next-of-kin and as such the champion of the family's cause. So she instructed Ruth to make the claim, and Ruth did it in the way sanctioned by the customs of the time. Boaz accepted the responsibility. It happened that he was not the next-of-kin but when the man who had the right refused to accept it, Boaz took it upon himself and Ruth's future was assured.

The most valuable member of any family, church, social circle and political or commercial organization is the man or woman who accepts responsibility. In the particular part of the work which it is his duty to do he is always to be counted on; if anything is left without provision for it, he will be sure to rise to the occasion, or provide for the work to be done. Such a spirit is the first qualification for true success.

Vermilion Fair Promises Stellar Attractions July 27, 28 and 29

Vermilion's Big 1950 Fair, which runs for three days, July 27, 28 and 29, gives promise of being the best ever. Interest in livestock and other classes is the keenest in years and the management has been putting the finishing touches on a new barn to help house the enlarged exhibit.

New features of the 1950 Exhibit will be the Motor Show in which all the new cars will be shown in a large building arranged for the purpose; the latest models will be on display and will doubtless attract a great deal of attention; the draw for the Kinsmen Club 1950 Pontiac will take place in front of the grandstand on Saturday evening and the attractions will be brought into their grand finale by a programme of fireworks also displayed in front of the stand.

The new famous Vermilion Light Horse Show will again be held and according to reports, to enter received will top all previous such shows, some Wainwright horses will be taking part and will add to the attractiveness of the fine display. Bobbie Burns of Pickensville expects to be on hand with his outstanding six horse team and has promised some fancy handiwork; other exhibitors planning on entering teams of six are the Bryden boys of Mannville and Wylie Bros. of Vegreville; the magnificent horses of Alex McMillan of Lloydminster will build up the showing of heaver and present indications are for a grand show of horsemanship.

The Old Heritage Farms of Edmonton, owned by Messrs. Milner and Steer are sending their herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle down to Vermilion where they will compete against other breeders of note; the Hereford and Shorthorn breeds will again be well represented and the dairy classes are already well filled; with sheep and swine from the farms of outstanding breeders and with the fine display of the newest in agricultural machinery there will be plenty for the members of the farming community to see.

The Grandstand Attractions programme, which has already been shown at Lethbridge, Moose Jaw, Portage la Prairie, Yorkton and other centres is said to be well above the average and it is expected that all patrons of the fair will be more than usually pleased with the attractions which include such famous acts as that given by a 'troupe' of fifteen dogs under expert management; this act alone is said to be worth the price of admission and will appeal to young and old alike. The Magical Jesters will thrill the audience as will the St. Leon Troupe in their startling trapeze work; Mel Marcus, the international 'nitwit' will provide comedy galore and, other acts, too numerous to mention, will guarantee a wonderful programme of entertainment. The midway this year will have new rides and will supply fun and thrills for all.

Vermilion Fair is again offering Advance Tickets at 3 for $1.00 and through the use of these tickets the cost of taking the family to the fair is greatly reduced; a whole carload of five adults can enter the main gates for a single buck and for a further three dollars worth of advance tickets can see the best grandstand show that has ever toured the west; at many other fairs the cost of admission to gate and grandstand would be double the amount charged at Vermilion; many patrons from the Wainwright area are likely to go to Vermilion on the 27th, 28th and 29th of this month and there is little question but that they will return wholly satisfied that their own district Fair provides 'tops' in the entertainment and educational field.

years after filing, and Whereas we believe that the average farmer would have a great inconvenience and difficulty in filing returns for that length of time, as his business is farming not bookkeeping.

Therefore be it resolved that we request that clearance papers be issued not later than six months after filing. Income Tax papers and the interest is charged owed through mistake of filing.

Interest Charged On Income Tax Whereas farmers are notified of mistake made after filing of Income Tax papers and the interest is charged owed through mistake of filing.

Therefore be it resolved that should a mistake be found in a statement that no interest be charged on the said amount until the person is notified. C.D. of the Old Age Pension Office.

Whereas the Means Test is expensive to apply and cannot be justly applied, and is an indignity, and Whereas its abolition would be more stimulating than destructive and in this way is commercially unsound, and it denies the recipient the right to exercise his ability to his own pecuniary advantage and (or) to the advantages of democracy, and

Whereas the Income Tax will take care of the return of any surplus in come to the Government, and Whereas its abolition would make for a more equal distribution of the products of labour, and

Whereas its abolition is physically possible it follows there it is financially possible.

Therefore be it resolved that we are unanimously in favor of the abolition of the Means Test for the Old Age Pensioner and substitute therefore the Income Tax. (carried)

Medicous Weeds Whereas the noxious weed problem is one of the most serious that the farmer has contended with, especially the weed known as Toad Flax, and

Whereas the Provincial Authorities say they know of no eradication method for Toad Flax except by the use of Sodium Chlorate which cost $65.00 an acre to apply.

Therefore be it resolved that we urge the Municipalities where a farmer buys and uses 100 lbs. of Sodium Chlorate as directed, any additional Sodium

Chlorate required be supplied by the Municipalities or the Provincial Government free of charge. (carried)

Farmers' Holiday Resolved that we favor the keeping of the second Friday in June as the official Farmers' Holiday this to be a school holiday and recognized as such throughout the Dominion. (carried)

WORLD OF WHEAT

The Depreciation Of Money

By H. C. STURGEON
We are hearing from British, and from some people in this country, that $2.00 wheat equals 1 Northern Fort William is more than is really worth, and that Britain cannot afford to pay that price. It is pointed out too, that in 1914, and for some years before that, wheat averaged not more than 20 cents a bushel.

What these good people forget is that the Canadian dollar and all other currencies in the world have greatly lost value since 1914.

When speaking of prices we should think not only of the money price but of rather what that money will buy. Based on the British and Dominion indexes of the cost of living and production, it is found that it takes $2.04 today for a bushel of wheat to buy as much as a bushel at 90 cents did in 1914. Actually, then, when we speak of 90 cent wheat in 1914, which in those days was certainly not thought to be too high a price. Almost all other goods and commodities have gone up in prices in proportion to the rise in the cost of living. Why should not wheat be entitled to the same consideration?

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

India's 1950 harvest of fall sown grains is larger than the 1949 production, according to official sources. The wheat crop is now estimated by private sources at about 217 million bushels, 15 million bushels more than last year's crop of 202 million bushels but still below pre-war production. The official wheat acreage estimate is 22.1 million acres compared to last year's acreage of 23.5 million acres.

Iran's 1950 wheat harvest is forecasted at approximately 65 million bushels, five percent below pre-war average but somewhat larger than last year's production. The barley crop is expected to be about 24 million bushels, five percent lower than the pre-war average but well above the 1949 production.

SWIMMING FOR HEALTH

Swimming is good sport and one of the best forms of exercise we have. A day at the beach is relaxing, cooling and healthful. But each summer a mounting toll of swimming accidents mars our enjoyment of water sports. Keep your name out of the casualty lists by swimming safely.

Weed Identification Service

The first step in any effective control program is an accurate determination of the weed or weeds to be suppressed. Every farmer should know the weeds he grows. Free Service: The accurate identification of weed plants requires a good deal of training and experience. Most western farmers need some help in this undertaking. Our Weed Identification Service was organized for this purpose. Farmers have only to collect good weed specimens and take them to any elevator belonging to one of the Line Elevator Companies associated with this Department. The Grain Buyer will forward them to us for identification without cost. A report giving the correct name and remarks on control measures will be returned promptly.

How to Collect. In collecting weeds for identification be sure and secure complete plant specimens. By a complete weed specimen we mean one which possesses all the essential plant parts—roots, stems, leaves and flowers or seeds. In the case of perennial weeds, underground parts such as bulbs or "root-crowns" may be necessary for correct identification.

How to Send. First of all shake or wash soil from the roots and then dry the plants thoroughly to prevent molding. If more than one weed is sent in for identification be sure to number and wrap each sample separately. Newspapers are excellent for wrapping. Pack the individually wrapped samples in a cardboard box and deliver them to your local grain buyer, or mail directly to Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg.

Farmers may also, of course, have weeds identified by sending them to any one of the following: (1) Your Provincial Department of Agriculture or Agricultural Representative. (2) Your nearest Dominion Experimental Station. (3) Your Provincial University. (4) The Division of Botany, Science Service, Ottawa. The important point is to have unknown weeds identified—somehow.

Our 80-page bulletin "An Illustrated Guide to Prairie Weeds" is available to farmers free. Commit your local grain buyer, or write to Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg or Calgary, for a copy.

Some persons can speak, see and hear while sleep-walking.

48-DAY JOB

VICTORIA, B.C.—A local ship-building company has established some sort of a record here—prefabricated parts for a 150-foot ferry built in 48 working days. The sections were constructed here and then taken to Kelowna by train for assembly. The ferry, to carry 40 cars and passengers, will run on the Okanagan Lake between Kelowna and Westbank.

Canadian industrial enterprise, not taking into consideration at all our agricultural enterprise, today provides jobs for 4,140,000 workers.

Thistle Control

Canada thistle and sow thistle are two weeds on which the use of 2-4-D has not proved very effective. It will kill the tops of the thistles and prevent them from going to seed in the crop, but for eradication we still have to rely on timely cultivation. G. R. Sterling, Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, points out that in grain fields that have been sprayed for control of other weeds, thistles will also have received a setback. But to kill them, full cultivation should be started as soon as the crop has been removed.

Mr. Sterling says that when summer following it is well to remember that thistles are at their weakest when in bloom. At that time the food reserve are low and the plants are more easily killed. If, however, weather conditions prove unfavourable for cultivation just then, there is danger of the thistles seeding before the work can be done. Cultivation for thistle control or summer-fallow should be started not later than the early bud stage and continued every 2 weeks until freeze-up. Too frequent cultivation adds to our problem of soil erosion; too little cultivation will result in an incomplete kill.

Keep the implements sharp so that they will do a thorough job, cautions Mr. Sterling.

About 29 cubic feet of poisonous gas is created with each pound of coal consumed by a steam locomotive.

See House Shortage A Cause Of Divorce

LONDON—Blame for many of Britain's divorces can be laid at the door of Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, says Shalagh Roberts.

Shalagh, 25-year-old inland revenue clerk, told 1,700 Young Conservatives that Bevan's building policy causes "not only these divorces but the rising rate of juvenile delinquency."

Shalagh said it's about time Bevan let private builders build more houses and without restrictions.

"Bevan, health minister since 1945, is responsible for Britain's building program but three other ministries are also involved—the Ministries of Supply, Works and Town and Country Planning."

RIBSTONE

On July 8, the Tabernacle Sunday School enjoyed a good picnic at an ideal spot in Mr. Varty's pasture. It was a perfect afternoon after the night rain. There was a good turn out and everyone enjoyed the ball games, races and the treats. A tasty picnic supper satisfied the appetites of many a hungry picnicer. We were reminded that it was a Sunday School Picnic by the singing of some rousing choruses and a good Gospel story told by Miss Cleo Windham. Everyone is already looking forward to the picnic next year. In the meantime let us be faithful at S.S.

Mrs. Partridge is up at Edmonton taking a summer course while the girls are on the farm with their dad and keeping house for him.

Mrs. R. Dallyn and family were away visiting for some time but are now back.

Mrs. Ben Read is back at the farm at Provost after spending the winter with his sister in Oregon. It is real good to see her back.

Miss Eva Burton and Mrs. Ralph Read spent the last week at Metlakow conducting a successful Vacation School for the boys and girls.

On Friday night, July 7, the Closing Program of the Tabernacle Vacation School was held. There was a good appreciative audience present to witness all the boys and girls had learned during the one week of school. All the classes recited their memory work and sang some class choruses. Special features of the evening included, a playlet "The Rhythmic Rhythmic" by the beginner class, "The Good Shepherd" by the primary class, "The A.B.C. of the Gospel" by the junior class and the "Bible Stories" by the intermediate class. The entire program was under the direction of Miss Burton. The other teachers for the classes were Mrs. R. Read, Miss Cleo Windham and Mr. Simuland.

FRESH MILK BLUES

Summer weather poses a stiff problem for the housewife who must keep milk fresh without the aid of refrigerator or icebox. Although sour milk has its uses, fresh milk is essential and wise housewives will check up on methods of keeping the product cool. Your local or provincial health department can suggest easy methods of protecting your milk supply from the heat.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Government critics claim 2,000,000 families in Britain still are without houses. At this present building rate, it is estimated they will not all be housed for 30 to 40 years.

The government claims to have built 671,157 permanent houses and apartments and 157,146 temporary dwellings in their five years of office, housing 1,119,061 families.

Peter Rabbit

By Mrs. Chas. Steel, Wainwright
Peter Rabbit was so sad.
He did not mean to be so bad.
His Ma had told him not to stray.
He must not go so far to play.
But Peter found a field of clover
And rolled and rolled and rolled all over.
He fell into a nest of bees
Which lay beneath the clover leaves
They stung him here and stung him there.
Those honey bees were most unkind
They stung him here and stung him there.

No peace he found, not anywhere
He ran so fast to find his Ma
He fell into a hole of tar.
The bees flew on the way back home
Leaving Peter all alone.
Peter shook himself and said
"I think I'd like to go to bed"
I'm sure in future he will be
What his mother wants him to.

VITAMIN D DEFICIENCY

An adequate amount of vitamin D in a child's diet is necessary to prevent rickets and to build strong, healthy bones and teeth. Vitamin D is not found in sufficient quantities in regular diet, nor can enough of it be absorbed from the sun, even in summer weather. Every child needs extra vitamin D in some form—liquid capsules or other preparations—throughout the growing years.
